DANCES OF UNIVERSAL PEACE

Welcome

Beloved Companions on the Path,
With great joy, we warmly invite you to the 8th Dances of Universal Peace Camp in Gokarna, Karnataka, India, from February 19–26, 2027.

Over the years, Gokarna has become a cherished home for our gatherings – a place where hearts open and the spirit of the Dances continues to flourish. What began as a shared vision has grown into a living tradition, bringing together people from many countries, cultures, and walks of life.

This year brings some beautiful changes. As we celebrate our 8th camp, we are delighted to finally make a change we have dreamed about for a long time: the 8th camp will be 8 days long instead of 7! An extra day gives us more time to immerse ourselves in the practices, share together, rest, celebrate, and simply enjoy being in Gokarna.

And there is more to look forward to. This year, we will be joined by four inspiring DUP mentors, each bringing their own experience, wisdom, musical gifts, and unique way of holding the circle. We can't wait to introduce them to you.

The theme of this year's camp is One Heart, One World. In a time when division, uncertainty, and conflict touch so many parts of our world, we are called to remember a deeper reality: the healing of the world begins in the human heart. As we cultivate peace, compassion, and harmony within ourselves, we become instruments of peace in our families, communities, and beyond. Through the Dances, we remember that inner and outer healing are not separate – they arise from the same source and nourish one another.

In a world that often moves too fast and pulls us in many directions, it feels more important than ever to create spaces where we can slow down, listen deeply, and reconnect with what truly matters. Through sacred dance, chant, silence, and community, we remember the simple truth that unites us all: we belong to one human family, sharing one heart and one world.

Surrounded by the beauty of the ocean, the warmth of the sun, and the peaceful atmosphere of Gokarna, we gather in a circle of remembrance, celebration, and prayer. Together, we cultivate peace within ourselves and offer it to the world.
May this camp be a time of inspiration, renewal, and joyful connection with the Divine presence that lives in every heart.

With love and gratitude,
The Organizing Team

About the Camp

Gokarna has become a beautiful tradition for the Dances of Universal Peace Camp. When our gatherings first began, our circle was small – just around ten people coming together to share the Dances. Since then, the camp has grown into a truly international gathering, welcoming participants from different corners of the world.

At the heart of the camp is the opportunity to immerse yourself in the Dances of Universal Peace – exploring sacred phrases, movement, music, breath, and prayer. At the same time, we believe that a meaningful experience needs space to settle and unfold.
This is why our camp is designed not only around practice, but also around spaciousness. There is time to rest, integrate what we experience, wander through Gokarna, swim in the ocean, watch the sunset, or simply enjoy a slower rhythm of life.
And this year, we are giving ourselves even more of that space. The 8th camp will be 8 days instead of 7, allowing us to deepen our practice without rushing and to fully enjoy the unique balance of inner work, community, and life by the ocean.

Whether you are discovering the Dances for the first time, have been dancing for many years, or are developing your path as a leader, there is space for you here. The camp also offers opportunities for current leaders to practice, share, and receive support in their leadership.

Come, come, whoever you are.
There is a place for you in the circle.

Meet the Teachers

FOUR MENTORS · ONE SHARED PATH

This year, we are honoured to welcome four experienced Dances of Universal Peace mentors from different parts of the world. Each of them carries a unique relationship with the Dances – shaped by years of practice, music, leadership, spiritual exploration, and service to their communities. Together, they bring different voices, traditions, and qualities into one shared circle.

Vasudeva · Russia

Vasudeva (Vladislav Kirbyatyev) has been part of the Dances of Universal Peace for many decades and has played an important role in nurturing and supporting the Dances within the Russian-speaking world. Since the Dances first arrived in Russia in the late 1980s, he has helped communities, leaders, and dancers deepen their connection with this living tradition.

A long-time practitioner of yoga and a devoted student of spiritual traditions, Vasudeva spends much of his time in India, where he continues his practice and study. His leadership reflects a deep appreciation for the roots of the Dances and their ability to bring people together across cultures and paths.

Vasudeva has also been part of our gatherings in India from the very beginning, making his presence in Gokarna especially meaningful.

Jilani Cordelia Prescott · United Kingdom

Jilani is a musician, mystic, Sufi guide, and certified Leader and Mentor of the Dances of Universal Peace International. She has been playing viola for the Dances since 1997 and leading them since 2005, becoming a certified Dance Leader in 2008. She works extensively with people who are growing into their own leadership with the Dances, running Dance Leader Trainings in the UK since 2017.

A classically trained musician and experienced teacher, Jilani brings together music, movement, voice, meditation, and the Sufi path in a way that is both grounded and deeply devotional. She travels widely, leading Dance and Sufi retreats internationally. Her particular gift is creating an atmosphere where people can become more fully themselves – open, joyful, present, and connected. She has a special passion for supporting trainee Dance Leaders and helping people discover and develop their own gifts.

Meet the Teachers

Dakini Warrior · United Kingdom

Dakini is a seeker on the path of the heart, a dance leader, a senior mentor, and a Murshida within the sacred lineages of the Dances of Universal Peace and Sufi Ruhaniat International.

Drawing deep inspiration from life, nature, Sufi mysticism, and Tibetan Buddhism, she has shared the dances across the globe for more than three decades. Born in Estonia, Dakini spent ten years living in Findhorn community, Scotland, where her path led her into organising spiritual journeys to Nepal, India, and Tibet. She co-founded a Buddhist retreat centre, initiated the Estonian Dance Camp in 2001, and later created the Dervish Days Family Sufi Camp in Scotland.

She is known for her clear and gentle guidance, her ability to awaken enthusiasm, and the warmth with which she holds a group. She is especially passionate about making the dances alive and accessible for new generations. Dakini also serves the worldwide community as a member of both the DUP International Ethics Council and the Guidance Council.

Yelena Swarana · Latvia

Yelena encountered the Dances of Universal Peace in 2006. They soon became a central part of her life. Since 2009, she has organised – and continues to organise – the annual Latvian Dancing Heart Camp, alongside countless local and international gatherings: spaces where people meet through music, movement, prayer, and each other.
Her path with the Dances has carried her across the Baltics, Scandinavia, the UK, New Zealand, Turkey, Israel, and Asia.

She feels blessed to co-lead, alongside both her mentors Shamsia and Devi, at the annual "House of Lovers" Sufi retreat in Wales.

India holds a particular place in her heart. She used to spend extended periods near Arunachala, which she calls home, drawn especially to its stillness and to the teachings of Advaita. Together with Vasudeva, she helped expand the annual Dances of Universal Peace camp in India, connecting international leaders with local dancers.

Yelena loves creating and sustaining community, encouraging heart connection, and allowing the Dances to travel naturally across cultures and borders.

Dances of Universal Peace

The Dances of Universal Peace are a spiritual practice in motion – a joyful and embodied way of connecting with the sacred through music, voice, movement, and prayer.

The Dances were born in the late 1960s through the vision of Samuel L. Lewis (Murshid Sam), a Sufi teacher and Zen Master whose spiritual journey was deeply influenced by the wisdom of many traditions. Samuel L. Lewis was a devoted student of the Indian Sufi mystic and musician Hazrat Inayat Khan, whose teachings on the unity of religious ideals and the awakening of the heart through music, beauty, and spiritual practice profoundly shaped the foundation of the Dances. The Dances of Universal Peace emerged from this inspiration, offering a direct experience of the sacred wisdom found within many spiritual traditions.

Drawing on sacred phrases, chants, melodies, and poetry from traditions around the world, the Dances bring people together in a circle to sing and move as one. We may encounter words and prayers from Sufi, Hindu, Buddhist, Jewish, Christian, Sikh, Zoroastrian, Indigenous, and other spiritual traditions – meeting each one with respect, openness, and presence.

There are no performers and no audience. Everyone participates.The Dances can be joyful and playful, deeply meditative, powerful and quiet. Through singing, movement, breath, and connection with others, we may experience something beyond our individual stories – a sense of belonging, unity, and peace.

At their heart, the Dances are a practice of remembering: remembering our connection with one another, with the Earth, and with the sacred presence expressed through the many paths of humanity. Today, Dances of Universal Peace circles, camps, retreats, and gatherings take place around the world, bringing together people of different cultures, backgrounds, and spiritual traditions. What connects us is not that we believe the same things, but that we are willing to meet one another in the circle. At the heart of this worldwide community is a shared aspiration: peace through the heart. You can read more at dancesofuniversalpeace.org

Come as you are. Take a place in the circle. Sing, move, breathe – and discover what becomes possible when we remember together!

Who is it For?

ThThis camp is open to everyone who feels drawn to explore the Dances of Universal Peace – whether you are completely new to the Dances or have been walking this path for many years.

You may feel at home here if you:

- are curious to experience the Dances and the joy of singing and moving together;
- are looking for a space to slow down, reconnect, and share meaningful moments with others;
- are an experienced dancer wishing to deepen your practice;
- are a current or mentored leader looking for space to practice, learn, and grow;
- feel inspired to explore the wisdom and sacred traditions of different cultures and spiritual paths;
- simply feel that something in you is calling you to this circle.

No previous experience with singing, dancing, or spiritual practice is required. You don't need to know the Dances, have a particular belief system, or consider yourself a "spiritual person". Come with curiosity, openness, and a willingness to participate.
The circle welcomes people of different ages, cultures, backgrounds, and levels of experience. What matters is not what you already know, but your willingness to meet yourself and others with presence and an open heart.
Participants under 18 years of age must be accompanied by a parent or legal guardian, who is responsible for them both within and outside the dance space.

Every heart. Every step. Every voice.

There is a place for you in the circle.

What to expect?

During these eight days, we will share a rich rhythm of practice, music, movement, rest, and connection – with enough space to immerse ourselves in the Dances while also enjoying the beauty and simplicity of life in Gokarna.

The camp will include:

- Dances of Universal Peace inspired by sacred traditions from around the world
- Morning yoga and breath practice to awaken the body and bring presence to the day
- Bhajans at sunset by the ocean – devotional songs, music, and shared joy
- Elemental and walking concentrations – opportunities to deepen awareness through movement, nature, and contemplation
- Leadership practice and mentoring for current and mentored DUP leaders
- Free Time & Open Space – time to rest, swim, explore Gokarna, visit temples or simply enjoy the ocean

The additional eighth day gives us more spaciousness throughout the camp – allowing the practices to unfold without rushing and leaving room for both deep immersion and integration.
The camp will be held in English. Sacred phrases used in the Dances will be taught slowly and clearly, with translations provided when needed. You do not need to speak English fluently to participate.

Date and Place

Date: February 19–26, 2027

Place: Shanti Krishna Residency (SKR), Gokarna, Karnataka, India

About Gokarna

Gokarna is a small sacred coastal town on the Arabian Sea, known for its ancient temples, golden beaches, coconut palms, and peaceful, naturally meditative atmosphere.

For centuries, Gokarna has been a place of pilgrimage. Today, pilgrims, yogis, travellers, and seekers share its quiet streets and coastal paths. Life here moves at a gentler pace – mornings begin with temple bells, days unfold under the palms, and evenings invite us to slow down and watch the sun disappear into the sea.

For many people, Gokarna becomes more than a destination. It is a place to breathe deeper, soften, reconnect, and simply enjoy the beauty of being alive.

Camp Venue – Shanti Krishna Residency

Our camp will take place at Shanti Krishna Residency (SKR), located on a hill overlooking Gokarna town and the Arabian Sea.

The Dances will take place in a spacious covered rooftop hall, giving us an open and airy setting while providing shelter from the sun. The venue is within walking distance of local cafés, shops, and guesthouses, with both Main Beach and Kudle Beach approximately 15–20 minutes away on foot.

The location allows us to move easily between the shared camp space and the simple pleasures of Gokarna – a swim in the sea, a chai at a local café, a quiet walk, or an evening watching the sunset.

Gokarna Walks with Vasudeva

As part of our Gokarna tradition, Vasudeva will offer two gentle morning walks through the town and its sacred places.

February 19 – Morning

A welcoming walk through some of Gokarna's sacred spots – a chance to arrive, connect with the place, and begin the camp with presence.

February 27 – Morning

A closing walk after the camp – a quiet opportunity to integrate the experience, express gratitude, and say farewell to Gokarna before continuing your journey.

The walks are optional and open to all participants. Donation is welcome.

Thank you for helping this circle of love, peace, and connection continue to grow.

Practical Information

To help you prepare for your time in Gokarna, we've gathered a few practical notes and gentle reminders.

What to Bring
Comfortable clothes for dancing, a yoga mat, a refillable water bottle, sun protection such as a hat and sunscreen, and your personal essentials. You may also wish to bring a small notebook for reflections or for writing down songs and Dances you learn. With the ocean nearby, don't forget your swimwear, towel, and light beachwear. The sea, beaches, and sunsets are an essential part of the Gokarna experience.

Weather
February in Gokarna is typically hot, sunny, and dry. Daytime temperatures are usually around 30–32°C, while nights are warm, around 22–24°C. Rainfall is generally very low at this time of year. Light, breathable clothing, sun protection, plenty of water, and some time in the shade will help you stay comfortable during the day.

Food
Gokarna offers many cafés and restaurants within walking distance of the camp venue, with plenty of vegetarian options as well as non-vegetarian food. Shanti Krishna Residency also has a restaurant where meals are available. Many participants enjoy gathering informally for meals and sharing time together between sessions.

Electricity & Internet
Electricity and Wi-Fi are available at Shanti Krishna Residency and most nearby guesthouses. Mobile network coverage is generally good. At the same time, we encourage a mindful and more offline presence during the camp – allowing yourself some space away from screens and everyday communication.

Money & Payments
Payments at the camp are made in Indian Rupees (INR). ATMs are available in Gokarna, but they may occasionally run out of cash or experience technical issues. We recommend having some Indian Rupees with you in advance and carrying enough cash for your personal expenses during your stay. You can also exchange foreign currency in Gokarna, although exchange rates and availability may vary.

Arrival & Departure
Please plan to arrive in Gokarna by the afternoon of February 19, 2027, so that you have enough time to settle in and rest before the camp begins. The opening circle will begin on February 19 at around 7:00–8:00 pm. The camp officially ends at 1:00 pm on February 26. You can plan your onward journey for the afternoon or evening of February 26, or stay longer and enjoy more time in Gokarna.

Eco-Friendliness
We invite everyone to help keep our gathering and the beautiful surroundings of Gokarna as eco-friendly as possible. Please bring your own refillable water bottle and avoid single-use plastics whenever possible. Let's help keep the beaches, streets, and sacred spaces of Gokarna clean and vibrant.

Health & Personal Care
A small hospital, clinics, and pharmacies are available in Gokarna town. Please bring any personal medication and essential health or personal-care items you may need during your stay. If there is anything the organising team should know to support your well-being during the camp, please let us know in advance.

Silence & Inner Space
Between sessions, you are welcome to rest, take a walk, swim in the sea, explore Gokarna, or simply sit in silence. This spaciousness is part of the camp – an invitation to slow down, listen deeply, and be present with yourself, with others, and with the place around you.

Voices from previous camps

This visit came during a phase of deep soul-searching. I wished to reconnect with my meditation practice and find guidance, which I received abundantly from my facilitator Vasudeva, whose presence is grounded, compassionate, and always open to sincere questions.

What unfolded over the next few days was more than a retreat- it was an experience of love, security, understanding, and quiet joy. This is not a random location; it is truly a place of power. The space itself is considered a Mayan altar, and one can feel how naturally it supports healing and inner transformation. Silence here is not empty- it is alive.

Having attended many retreats over the years, I can say with certainty that this was one of the best experiences of my life. I met beautiful souls, formed genuine connections, shared perspectives, and bonded over delicious, nourishing vegan and vegetarian meals, prepared with care and consciousness.
